From the Database Coordinator

I'd like to thank everyone who attended the DataFest on September 11th. If you are one of the 188 that attended on Thursday, please take a moment to fill out a short evaluation at <http://www.tenn-share.org/datafest08/> (click "online evaluation").

Even if you don't visit the URL above, you'll want to see our brand-new website at this one: <http://www.tenn-share.org/> At the new website you can get information on all our ongoing group purchases, access back issues of this newsletter, review your library's membership record, and see all the other exciting initiatives that Tenn-Share is involved with. Of course, there may still be a few glitches – if you see any please use the "contact us" link so we can straighten them out.

Plus, you can look forward to a brand new format for the next issue of this newsletter (which will be on Monday 9/29)!

See below for the chance to join in our group purchases of MathSciNet, STAT!Ref Anatomy TV, and OCLC WorldCat. We also have new discount offers from Oxford University Press for many of their databases, including the products demonstrated at the DataFest. Look for more new trials and offers from DataFest vendors in the next newsletter.

Continuing offers include World Trade Press (really neat and cheap!), and Cambridge Histories Online. Please take a moment to check these out.

The free database is BizToolKit, a one-stop resource for business people and business students!

STAT!Ref Anatomy TV is a suite of 3D interactive models of human anatomy useful for health sciences students as well as healthcare professionals. More information on the product, and a Flash tutorial, are available at <http://online.statref.com/titleinfo/anatomytv.html>. If your library is interested in joining the Tenn-Share group purchase, please let me know at LuckDL@wildblue.net by Monday October 6th.

OCLC WorldCat

Many of you took advantage of the opportunity to subscribe to FirstSearch WorldCat through the Tenn-Share group in June. We are planning on adding another group of libraries, who were not able to join in June for whatever reason, in December for a 6-month contract. This will catch the new group up with the original libraries and all will renew in June. If your library is interested in joining in December, please email me at LuckDL@wildblue.net by Friday, October 10th. For more information about the advantages of the subscription, please see <http://www.tenn-share.org/resources/worldcat>.

World Trade Press

Global Road Warrior

Global Road Warrior provides, according to many client librarians, the world's most comprehensive country data related to:

- *Society and Culture (about 10 x the content of CultureGrams)
- *Communications (the world's most comprehensive)
- *Media (details on thousands of media outlets worldwide)
- *Travel (with more of a business perspective, but equally usable for personal travel)
- *Trade
- *Business
- *Money and Banking (scans of all banknotes and coinage in worldwide circulation)
- *Country Maps (9 proprietary downloadable maps per country) and more than 20 other topics.

Many institutions find that the content takes the place of as many as five reference books and six subscriber databases; saving a substantial amount of money. Compare it to Facts on File products and CultureGrams.
