FROM THE DATABASE COORDINATOR

More information is being added to our recently announced discounts all the time! We now have academic library pricing for EBSCO databases, discounted pricing for the netLibrary 9th Shared Collection, ProQuest pricing, and more free trials and webinars for many other databases. See below or here for all the details.

For questions, quotes or to order any of these products, simply email databases@tenn-share.org with all the relevant information (specific product, size (FTE, cardholders, etc.), current subscription status, etc.)

Also, enter your FTE, population served, or other size measure here: <http://www.tenn-share.org/members/sizes>. This way neither Lyris nor I will have to keep asking you for it!

As people starting planning their getaways from the snow, beef up your travel collections with the FREE resources highlighted in this issue.

TCPP DISCOUNTS ANNOUNCED

The Tennessee Consortial Purchase Project has the following Phase Two discounts to announce. The pricing was negotiated by Lyris, and all invoicing will be done by Tenn-Share.

Please keep in mind that the pricing listed for the products below is initial pricing. If a number of new subscribers are interested in a particular purchase, Lyris can sometimes renegotiate a larger discount. So be sure to express interest in products, even if the pricing is a little high. A list of interested libraries will be added to the product's web page, so you can see which of your colleagues want to subscribe.

Pricing was determined for the library type most likely to use the resource.

If you want a quote for a product listed under another library type, just let me know at databases@tenn-share.org. The pricing, trials, and other information are linked from <http://www.tenn-share.org/resources/databases>. Information on the following databases is available:
